Dear Ron,

It is with regret that I must inform you that Texture Capital will not be able to proceed as placement agent for the Victory Litigation Fund.

We discussed with you recently some of the concerns we had stemming from our due diligence process. While you have a credible explanation in each case, we still feel that in aggregate the risks associated with the offering are too high for us to take on. This is somewhat compounded by the fact that as a digital securities broker dealer we are under additional scrutiny from our regulators.

I have enjoyed getting to know you, and truly wish you every success with this endeavour.

Best regards,

Richard.

Thank you, Chris. You are the gift that keeps giving.

Conspiracy, collusion, obstruction, tortious interference; are all complicated issues to prove in a court of law.

By removing me from the email chain and disparaging me in front of past investors, you prove the point of Beth's book and my specific allegation against you and the industry in general..

You are right; I have burned every professional bridge in the mass tort old boys club. Guilty as charged. That is why I haven't been able to make a living in mass tort and am in such a diminished economic position at the moment. I lost all of my previous momenta when someone like you sent out an email in the middle of the night and took a $500MM opportunity away from my family just because they got jealous. That sucks, and it cost most of the people on this email chain a lot of money, so I'd say know your audience before you shit on the guy they are counting on to pay them back.

The relevant point of this little drama was to announce that I'm forming MY club.

To be clear, this was a calculated move called a feint in military jargon.
